Dear FCC:

Everyone who can should have a cell phone of some kind these days when life seems so uncertain and at times, so unsafe. To further put a hardship on the consumer financially is penalizing the wrong people. It's the rich against the poor, the haves and the have-nots. Is there no one in Washington who gives a darn about the "little" guy? Please don't tell me it filters down. The "little guys" I've talked to aren't seeing it that way. Well this latest expense is one you can do something about. Please forget the dollar increase and concentrate on how more people can benefit from this wonderful form of communication. Thank you.

Thank you for your prompt attention to this matter. Please provide a written response indicating the status/resolution of this matter.

Very truly yours,
